

Nancy Norbeck
Writing and Creative Process Coach

Rates and Other Helpful Information, as of October 2016

Coaching:

Single session: $150

4-pack: $500 ($125 each)

I set aside two spaces for clients who may need a sliding scale. Please contact me directly for more information.

I also offer special packages around the holidays each year.

How coaching works:

Each session lasts up to 60 minutes. In that time, we will work together to understand your creative blocks and help you get around them. As a Master Certified Kaizen-Muse Creativity Coach, I facilitate your own insights and discoveries, which means that you determine what we explore, any next steps you might take, and how quickly we move (faster is not always better!).

I provide tools and information about how creativity works to help you understand your blocks and keep you in charge of your process. I may also offer suggestions, but they will not be effective if they do not feel right to you, so you are always in charge of the work we do together.

Editorial Services:

I use the rates set by the Editorial Freelancers Association, which can be found at <http://the-efa.org/res/rates.php>

If you start as a coaching client and decide that you'd like editorial services, they can be added when your draft is ready.

Because no two authors are alike, rates for services that combine straight editing with feedback on the work itself will be determined individually. Please contact me and we'll talk!

